Our National Song.

Dedicated to the People of the Union by Family Fair.

Of all the roads and lanes on this beautiful Earth,
And all the fair islands that smile in the Sea,
No spot is so dear as the land of our birth,
No country so noble no people so free!
We are free men, and mighty through Freedom alone,
United by ties that no tyrant can sever:
The Star of our Union, that never sets down,
It shall stand in its grandeur forever!

It shall stand in its grandeur forever!
Forever!

We are proud of our country—we would not be found
Of its forests, its rivers, its mountains so grand,
And its plain—Heroes, whose sons never kneel
To aught but their God, and the laws of the land?
We are proud of our fathers—the blood that they shed,
And the freedom they won—Shall we let it with it?
Never!

Better die than live slaves, a disgrace to the dead,
They were free, and we will be forever!
Forever!

They were free, and we will be forever!

Then float out our banner, the stripes and the stars
Like beautiful link'n of morning and light;
Our motto is "Peace," but we shall not from wars,
As ready to die or to live, for the right:
We will fight for the Union for the land that we love,
Foes without, or within, no dissensions shall sever:
And our last prayer shall be (speak, shall it above!)
"God bless our dear country forever!"

Forever!

God bless our Dear Country forever!

Parson Brownlow's Opinion of J. A. Sperry.

This secession blackguard, low-down, but common drunkard, and most reckless and unprincipled of all the liars who has edited a paper here for twenty years, is out in a card over his cowardly signature, in reference to me. He states, in substance, that he can't notice me otherwise, because I am not responsible, or of sufficient character to command his attention. This is esteemed decidedly rich by all parties here.

He states that though he has resided here "some four months," he has never in all that time, "seen Brownlow's face." Nay, he has never met with any man who has "seen his face on the frequented part of the main thoroughfare of the city." This is perhaps true, and may need an explanation. The English of it is, that I don't visit the same "thoroughfares" that he does, nor keep the same company. The keeper of a livery stable, and a member of his own party, choked him down and basted him one night in a liquor shop! That is a "frequented part of the main thoroughfare of the city" that I never visit! Another man more recently kicked and cuffed the debauched scavenger in a ten pin alley, after night, under the influence of liquor. That is another "frequented part" of the city that I never visit! Another very respectable business man, called out after the hour of midnight, found this degraded beast lying on the pavement drunk, at the corner recently occupied by Fox & Board, from which he was taken at 2 o'clock before day. This was at one of my "frequented parts" of the city, but it was not my hour of moving about.

This corrupt tool may never have seen my face, as he states, and it is a generally received opinion that he has not desired the sight. All hands agree, that if he were not the most infamous coward in the town, he would have long since gone round the "frequented parts of the main thoroughfares of the city," in search of me.

But he has neither character nor credit. Behind with the hands in his office—denied credit any longer for paper here, he is now creating a paper debt at Marietta, Georgia, which he never intends to pay. I have not heard anything from the proprietor of these papermills, but it is confidently asserted by citizens and printers on our streets, that he has been refused longer credit here. He does not write his editorials, but fathers, like a low flung miscreant, what others write for him, and this is susceptible of proof. Let him publish one card over his imposing signature, and in that tell the public what part he played in the Johnson forgeries, and in the Knoxville Session attempt to fetch away money from Lawrence!

W. G. BROWNLOW.

A musical composer recently visited the Isle of Thenet, and while pacing the deck during a heavy squall, was extremely annoyed to perceive that the spray had damaged the lace and other finery in which the young lady (as he supposed) had bedizened herself. She heeded not; but, turning to an elderly female, exclaimed: "La! ain't the waves just like our soap-suds?" The mamma was wroth, and speedily doffed her gentility by saying: "Hang it! when you come out a lady, can't you leave the tub at home?"

Senator Baker's Great Speech.

[Washington correspondent of the Philadelphia Press.]

The greatest speech of the session was delivered in the Senate yesterday by Mr. Senator Baker, of Oregon. It was in reply to Senator Breckinridge, who might be called our National Cassandra, if he were not so anxious to be the Cyrenus-tra of the Union. Mr. Breckinridge had just favored the Senate in his cold, polished, haughty, and even contemptuous way, with one of his peculiar speeches about trampling upon the constitution, military despotism, Presidential tyranny, &c., &c. The Senator was very exultant, and spoke to the Senate as if it were under lasting obligation to him for telling it of its crimes. Mr. Baker's reply was great and produced a wonderful effect in the Senate. Impromptu from the very necessity of the case, it had all the finish of an essay. The Senator has a very fine presence; his style is flowing and exceedingly pleasing; his voice was well modulated, and his sentences chaste, compact, forcible, and filled with argument and illustrations. His argument was crushing, and his illustrations apt. Senator Breckinridge's reply was very lame, and he seemed to forget his generally impassible and complacent bearing as he winced under the well-told truths of our Senator from Oregon.

As a singular coincidence, it may be stated that Senator Baker, at the time a representative from Illinois, made a similarly great speech at the beginning of the Mexican War. Those who remember it say that he created as great a sensation in the House as he did yesterday in the Senate. At that time he was with the South, and ardently an advocate of a war which was undertaken to aggrandise the South, and give her a great part of the territory which she now seeks to steal. Then he was for placing the Union flag over Texas, and rescuing her from Mexican bondage. Now, he is for restoring the Union flag to Texas, and rescuing her from secession bondage. Then he was a commander of a regiment in the service of the republic, now he is commander of a regiment in the service of the republic. Mr. Baker is eminently a self made man, having been cast in the same mould as Stephen A. Douglas, David C. Broderick, President Lincoln, and Andrew Johnson, and there are those in Philadelphia who will remember him, not many years ago, as an excellent and industrious weaver. He has left the loom, but taken his habits along with him, and is as excellent and industrious in the army and the Senate as when he chased the shuttle through the well spun web during the tedious hours of many a long and weary day. J. R. Y.

A witty fellow slipped down on an icy pavement. While sitting, he muttered: I have no desire to see the town burned down, but I sincerely wish the streets were laid in ashes.

TUESDAY MORNING, OCTOBER 1, 1861.

Rev. Mr. Pearne's Sermon on the Duty of the American People to Support their Government.

Mr. Pearne, at the request of many of our citizens, repeated on Sunday forenoon last, his sermon on this subject. It was based on the verses including the 15th and 21st of the 22d chapter of Mathew. There was a very large number of people present. We cannot undertake even to give a brief review of his sermon; but the speaker successfully supported his position that Government was an institution of God, and that the people were bound to support it as such an institution; that should bad laws be enacted by inadvertence or mistake, we should still be governed by them, until they were repealed by the Government; and that Government should not be opposed or subverted while it protected and sustained all the rights of the people, blessing alike the poor and the rich, and rendering the Government and the people "a nation and a praise in the whole earth." He as readily conceded that when Government became corrupt, and failed to perform their functions for the benefit of the people—the right of revolution was one which he recognized, and that we would be doing God's will to abolish such governments. In the present and past condition of the country, this had not been the case. The South, according to her own showing, had administered the Government and the Constitution, as she had chosen, for almost the whole period of its existence. The Constitution had not been changed; it had not been perverted; it existed now as our fathers presented it to us—in the form in which one of the distinguished men of the South had said, "it was the work of Divine inspiration." The close of Mr. Pearne's discourse was exceedingly appropriate. He said: "The Constitution voted for by the Southern States and people, and lauded by those now leading the rebellion has given by inspiration to our fathers, has that been changed? Not a jot or title, not a line, word or letter. It is the same now that it was in the beginning; and if new offensive to them there was a Constitutional remedy. Have they appealed to that? Not at all. There has been no invasion of the South—no interference with the rights. In the name of reason, then we demand, what can justify this rebellion? There is no justification—absolutely none. We have a Government. It is wise and benignant. It has led us on to greatness and glory, and arts, and science, and religion, and every moral and material interest of humanity, have gone forward with the tread of a giant. That Government has been assailed by men in arms—men who have grown up under its benignant shadows. The thunder tread of armed legions, swarming for the overthrow of this Government, makes the land tremble. The soil of the country is drenched with the blood of American citizens; some of them attempting to overturn our institutions, and others defending them, crying out with their last gasp for their bleeding country. The flag of our country, the symbol of Constitutional liberty and law, which Washington bore unstained through all the gloomy trials of the Revolution, which Jackson in New Orleans, and Scott at Lundy's Lane, maintained honorably against the British Lion, and which Taylor and Scott carried through Mexico in a series of glorious victories, has been trampled in the dust by rebel feet. Oh, what a day is this! This happy land, the hope of the world, the asylum of the oppressed of all other lands, wrapped in the flames of civil war! Is there help for us? There is, thank God! Let us pray to God. Let us agonize in prayer before Him. Unless God helps us, all is lost, irretrievably lost. But He will help us, if we humble ourselves before Him."

The closing remarks were delivered with tremendous emphasis and power. They were felt in the manifest silence and stillness of the large congregation. We saw the tear standing in the eyes of "strong men, unused to weep." Mr. Pearne's words but respond the sentiments of a large majority of our people: "No cost of blood or treasure is too great for the preservation of this Union." And if it falls, it will be a fall worthy our past history—worthy the memory of our fathers.

The Union Democracy in Ohio.

The Cleveland Plain Dealer is one of the most able democratic papers of Ohio. In a late number of that paper we find the following article. How different its tone from that of the secession papers in Oregon.

Our Country's Enemies.

Liberty is the tyrant song of the traitor.—Freedom of speech and the Press to crush out freedom and aid in the destruction of our liberties is advocated as a sacred constitutional right. Some papers are horror-stricken at the thought that a paper in the open advocacy of treason should, in time of open rebellion, be treated as other enemies of our country. The Jeff. Davis paper of Missouri was silenced as we would silence a masked battery, when all sympathizers sent up a wail for our lost liberties and trumpet for their own fate. These papers now "knowing that their time is short," like their old prototype, the Dragon, are sending out their uninterrupted stream of poison, broadcast over the land, for free distribution. We hear of the New York Day Book through the country everywhere, for gratuitous circulation, and presume the Journal of Commerce and News will be equally appreciated by rebel allies. But should these batteries be silenced, there is another class just behind them that would cry out "gag, gag, liberty of speech in danger, tyranny over the press," &c. This latter class have not yet the courage to openly advocate treason or the cause of traitors, but they are at heart our country's enemies. They are shocked because the Administration saved the Capital and the Government archives by the exercise of doubtful Constitutional powers. They evidently, from their logic, would be better pleased to see Davis, the traitor, in possession of the Capital and archives unconstitutionally than the President. If some Yankees should hang Davis with a stolen rope, the army alone would fill their thoughts and give them the nightmare.

Show us the enemies of our country and its Constitution, and we will advocate their destruction constitutionally if practicable, but the salvation of our country shall cover our grief for doubtful means, nor will we analyze the blood for kindred sympathy. The day is not far distant when the internal enemies of our country, whether Congressmen, publishers or spies, will command our attention.—Plain Dealer.

DR. SCOTT HUNG IN EFFIGY.—At daylight, on the 22d of September, Dr. Scott, of the Calvary Church in San Francisco, was hung in effigy with a placard appended, with the words, "death to traitors." Very soon a crowd of about three thousand persons assembled, and violence was threatened. An American flag was raised on a lamp-post in front of the Church, when a lady, Mrs. Dupuy, tore it down; the crowd then rushed in and rescued the flag, and were replacing it again, when the man who raised it coming up, and supposing that they were taking the flag down, pitched in to defend it. The crowd mistook his intentions, and severely beat him. He was thrown from a parapet, a distance of twelve feet, badly cutting his head and injuring one of his arms. The crowd now rapidly increased. The entire police force was on the ground, and five hundred men of the secret Union organization were present. Dr. Scott was not seen to enter the Church, but he appeared in the pulpit at the usual hour, entering from his studio. In his opening prayer he uttered no exceptionable sentiments. The subject of his discourse was "Ministers of the gospel are God's Ambassadors." He was listened to with respect throughout. The police was drawn up in front of the Church, ready to arrest the first sign of disturbance. At the close of services, it required all the exertions of the police to get Dr. Scott into his carriage. The Chief of Police mounted the carriage-box, the crowd gave way, and the Doctor was driven off at full speed amid the hootings of the crowd. Many friends of Dr. Scott were present armed to the teeth, and the report of a pistol would have been the signal for a bloody row. The affair was very much regretted. It is said that not a single well known citizen was recognized as taking part in the proceedings of the mob.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 23d.—The officers of Calvary Church, held a meeting this afternoon, and Dr. Scott sent in his resignation, to take effect immediately.

The receipts in four days, at the State Fair in Sacramento, were over twelve thousand dollars.

Martin Van Buren says: "It is the duty of the people to rise above party until the rebellion is put down."

Taxation in France.

Here is a companion sketch, from the Paris Industrial Journal, to that celebrated one by Sydney Smith on the taxation which an Englishman must endure from his cradle to his coffin:

Man in France is a material eminently taxable. The French citizen cannot take a step, move an arm, cough, spit, or sneeze, without paying a tax to the treasury, in consequence of these acts, gestures and movements. When he is born, a duty must be paid at the Mayoralty for the certificate of his birth. When an adult and sent to college, a duty for the University is exacted; when he leaves it and chooses his profession, another at his examination, his graduation and his disputation. At the age of 21 he pays a "blood tax," or the right of redemption from actual service in consideration of money. When married, a tax on his marriage contract and his citizenship. While an infant there is a tax on his baptism. When he acquires property, there is another for its registration. When he inherits it on his right of succession. When he consumes anything, there is the octroi. If he trades, another tax for the right of trading. If he imports, he is taxed with duties; if he traffics with the interior, for that privilege as well. When he travels he is taxed for his passport. If he hunts, he is taxed for the right to carry arms. When in the civil militia, for time to work, and the cost of a uniform. When he dies, a tax is levied on the funeral.

There are other kinds of taxation which surround the Frenchman from his cradle to his grave. He is taxed in his dress in the guise of wool in his shirt in the form of cotton, in his boots in that of leather; he is taxed on his fingers by the stamp on his rings and signets, in his watch-pocket in the stamp on his watch, and on his table in his silver ware, in every pinch of snuff, and every cigar and pipe of tobacco. Taxation follows him in his plays, at his cards, in his amusements, in his dwelling-place with the land charge on the site where he reposes, in all the elements which surround him, in the air through his doors and windows, in the water through the licenses of the water-carriers, in the fire in fuel and light, in the earth for the right of burial; it follows him for every letter he posts, in the registry whenever he makes a contract, in the wood of which his bed is constructed, in whatever he drinks, and, indirectly, in whatever he eats; in that which makes him sick and that which makes him well, in the raw material and that which is manufactured. In short, taxation makes its demand in everything which pleases the senses of a Frenchman and is agreeable to see, to smell, to touch, to taste, and to hear.

Finally, he meets it even in his last moments, on the bed where he dies, in the potion which he swallows from the spoon which has been registered. He expires in the arms of a tax-licensed doctor assisted by a tax-licensed apothecary. He is carried to the grave in a taxed hearse, placed in a tomb taxed for its marble and iron; happy indeed if in six or seven years afterwards his bones are not stripped of their decayed covering to be manufactured into ivory blacks, heavily taxed, and to be used for some purpose subject again to stamp duty tax or license.

ARREST OF JUDGE MCHENRY.—Yesterday afternoon Michael McManus, a soldier in the United States service, stationed at Alcatraz Island, made complaint at the U. S. Marshal's Office that John McHenry, attorney at law, had been trying to induce him to desert from the service, and join a party that was going "where he could do better." His story was that sometime last spring McHenry met him and another soldier named Smith, and said that if they wanted to leave and go to San Andreas he would furnish the means—and that he would give them a note to a party at San Andreas, who would furnish them a horse and equipments for them to go further where they would fare better.

Nothing after that Smith left. Some time in July, McManus met McHenry again in this city. McHenry asked McManus why he did not either go like a man or come and see him. McManus answered that he didn't want to go. The Judge said that he'd see him again.

On the 7th or 8th of September he says he met McHenry again, near the corner of Merchant and Montgomery streets. McHenry called him aside and asked him if he wanted to desert him? If he wasn't going why didn't he let him know? A party was going the last of this month. McManus told him it wouldn't suit him at all—he didn't want to go. Then, he says, McHenry lifted his cane and said, "I'm a mind to let you have this over your head."

Yesterday afternoon, McManus having just left Deputy Marshal Johnson, met McHenry again on Washington street. They shook hands, and McHenry said he'd like to see him about that business, and told him to call this morning, at his office. McManus then walked off, and the Deputy Marshal soon after arrested Judge McHenry. The Judge protested it was a conspiracy of policemen against him. Judge Hoffman, hearing how the matter stood, thought the Deputy had better let the prisoner go on promise of returning this morning; but afterwards on the order of Marshal Rabe he was re-arrested about 10 P. M. He gave bail in the sum of $3000 to appear before Commissioner Cutler McAllister at 2 P. M. to-day, and answer to the charge of enticing Michael McManus to desert.—San Francisco Bulletin.

CITY.

New Music.—Mr. E. G. Randall, of the Music Store on First street, has placed upon our table two pieces of very fine music, for which he has our thanks. "Defend the Stars and Stripes" is the title of one of them—a patriotic song composed for and sung by "The Varieties" of San Francisco—words and music by Gustavus A. Scott, and published by M. Gray, No. 613 Clay street. It is a spirited piece and dedicated to Major General R. V. Sumner. The other is quite a pretty little polka-mazurka, entitled "Souvenir de Clairville," by A. J. Bocio, Jr., San Francisco. Mr. Randall has now on hand a large supply of new marches, waltzes, quicksteps, and polkas, constant receipt of all the latest music published in California and the Atlantic States.

Recorder's Court.—Edward Mulred was taken before Judge Risley, yesterday morning, and fined $10 and costs, for disorderly conduct.

For the Dalles.—A drove of five hundred head of sheep, from Polk County, passed through our city yesterday, en route for the Dalles.

For the State Fair.—After to-day the Express will make but one trip per day, leaving Portland at 8 A. M., returning, will leave Oregon City at 4 P. M.

OREGON STATE FAIR GROUND,
September 30, 1861.

The buildings are nearly completed. Stock is coming in. A good many people are present. To-morrow will be devoted to making and perfecting arrangements for the exhibition. There are several horses here famed for fast running.

Accommodations are great for a fine Fair. The best plan of reaching here will be by the river.

Items at the Fair.—We want to say a few words to the ladies. We expect many of them at the Fair. We cannot get along without them, and we wouldn't if we could. Ladies come to us in plain dresses. Good calicoes and delaines, and other common stuffs, are good enough. In walking over the ground, grass, and rough places, we want you to have dresses that will not be injured—that will not keep you in a state of anxiety. We want you to give your whole minds to the Fair. This is the great ANNIVERSARY OF LABOR, and we want to see our American women in costumes that befit the occasion.

Goods on the Express.—Many articles bound to the Fair Grounds for exhibition. Buchtel Bro. send with a portion of his offerings. Burrell, Smith & Co. expect Corbett with his Agricultural machinery, to-morrow. In good time, we notice.

S. F.

Intelligence by the last Overland Mail.—Last Summer received a large package of letters addressed by parties in the State to persons in the seceded States. The letters have been opened by the Department, and it is said something will grow out of it.

The United States Marshal, on the 23d, attached 1053 pounds of tobacco in the store of Gray, Heath & Allen, San Francisco, alleged to be forfeited under the proclamation of the President.

A company of cavalry, 64 men, arrived at San Francisco on the 23d, from Santa Cruz, and proceeded to Camp Alert. Gov. Downey reviewed the troops at Camp Alert on the 22d.

The S. F. Daily News bids farewell to the public in time.

CITY ORDINANCE.

An Ordinance fixing the salary of J. H. Mitchell, City Attorney for the City of Portland.

The People of the City of Portland do ordain

That J. H. Mitchell, City Attorney, be and he is hereby entitled to receive the salary of one thousand dollars per annum, to be in full compensation of his services as said City Attorney, to be paid quarterly, the first quarter to date from the time he shall have entered upon the duties of said office.

That there be, and there is hereby appropriated, out of any moneys in the City Treasury not otherwise appropriated, for the payment of said J. H. Mitchell, City Attorney, the sum of one thousand dollars, the same to be paid upon the order of the Council when it becomes due, pursuant to section first of this ordinance.

That this ordinance take effect and be in force from and after its approval by the Mayor.

Passed the Common Council Sept. 20th, 1861.

J. S. WHITE, Acting Pres't.

Attest: H. BOYD, Clerk.

Approved by the Mayor and passed by a two-thirds vote of the Board, September 27th, 1861.

H. BOYD, Clerk of the Common Council of the City of Portland.

Swett's Grape Bitters, or Restorative Wine, manufactured under the supervision of Mrs. A. M. The Medical and Surgical Institute of DR. L. J. CZAPKAY is already secured in a position which places it, as well as its proprietor, far above the assaults of envy and professional malice. In the schools of France, the highest prizes are often awarded to practitioners in this department of medical science, and they occupy, with others, an equally lofty position in the profession. Indeed is an illustrious example, a shining light among the philosophical stars of his age in Europe, and Dr. Czapkay has fully equalled him in this country; as a proof of which, the Philadelphia College of Medicine complimented him with a Diploma, and the honorary degrees, selecting this as his field of operation, although qualified as a graduate of the University of Pesth, and late Chief Surgeon of the Hungarian Revolutionary army, for more extended labors, Dr. L. J. Czapkay has bent his earnest attention to the cure of chronic and private diseases, in which he has become so great an expert, that he is now regarded as the leader in this branch of his profession throughout the United States, and his portraits and biography are published as matter of interest to their readers in the most exclusive journals. The Doctor's offices are at his Medical and Surgical Institute, on Sacramento street, corner of Leidesdorff, nearly opposite the buildings of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company, San Francisco. We ask particular attention of our readers to the sworn certificates of remarkable cures in another column of this paper. Persons not wishing to lose time in correspondence, please enclose $10 in their letters, and they will get immediate attention to their cases. Address, L. J. CZAPKAY, M. D., San Francisco, Cal. Laws of the United States.

Passed at the First Session of the Thirty-Seventh Congress,

[PUBLIC—No 22.]

AN ACT to provide for the suppression of rebellion against and resistance to the laws of the United States, and to amend the act entitled "An act to provide for calling forth the militia to execute the laws of the Union, &c., passed February twenty eighth, seventeen hundred and ninety five."

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That whenever, by reason of unlawful obstructions, combinations, or assemblages of persons, or rebellion against the authority of the Government of the United States, it shall become impracticable, in the judgment of the President of the United States, to enforce, by the ordinary course of judicial proceedings, the laws of the United States within any State or Territory of the United States, it shall be lawful for the President of the United States to call forth the militia of any or all the States of the Union, and to employ such parts of the land and naval forces of the United States as he may deem necessary to enforce the faithful execution of the laws of the United States, or to suppress such rebellion in whatever State or Territory thereof the laws of the United States may be forcibly opposed, or the execution thereof forcibly obstructed.

Sec 2. And be it further enacted, That whenever, in the judgment of the President it may be necessary to use the militia force hereby directed to be employed and called forth by him, the President shall forthwith, by proclamation, command such insurgents to disperse and retire peaceably to their respective abodes, within a limited time.

Sec. 3. And be it further enacted, That the militia so called into the service of the United States shall be subject to the same rules and articles of war as the troops of the United States, and be continued in the service of the United States until discharged by proclamation of the President: Provided, That such continuance in service shall not extend beyond sixty days after the commencement of the next regular session of Congress, unless Congress shall expressly provide by law therefor: And provided further, That the militia so called into the service of the United States shall, during their time of service, be entitled to the same pay, rations, and allowances for clothing as are or may be established by law for the army of the United States

Sec 4. And be it further enacted, That every officer, non-commissioned officer, or private of the militia, who shall fail to obey the orders of the President of the United States or any of the cases before recited, shall forfeit a sum not exceeding one year's pay, and not less than one month's pay, to be determined and adjudged by a court-martial; and such officer shall be liable to be cashiered by a sentence of court-martial, and be incapacitated from holding a commission in the militia for a term not exceeding twelve months, at the discretion of the court, and such non-commissioned officers and privates shall be liable to imprisonment, by a like sentence, in failure of payment of the fines adjudged against them, for one calendar month for every twenty five dollars of such fine,

Sec. 5. And be it further enacted, That courts-martial for the trial of militia shall be composed of militia officers only.

Sec. 6. And be it further enacted, That all fines to be assessed as aforesaid shall certified by the presiding officer of the court-martial, and shall be collected and paid over according to the provisions and in the manner prescribed by the seventh and eighth sections of the act of February twenty eighth, seventeen hundred and ninety five

Sec. 7. And be it further enacted, That the marshals of the several districts of the United States, and their deputies, shall have the same powers in executing the laws of the United States as sheriffs and their deputies in the several States have, by law, in executing the laws of their respective States

Sec 8. And be it further enacted, That sections, two, three, and four of the act entitled "An act to provide for calling forth the militia to execute the laws of the Union, suppress insurrections, and repel invasions, and to repeal the act now in force for those purposes," approved February twenty eighth, seventeen hundred and ninety-five, and so much of the residue of said act and of all other acts as conflict with this act, are hereby repealed.

Approved, July 29 1861

Or all diseases the first great cause Springs from neglect of Nature's laws

To the Afflicted:

Sufferers, whether a cure is guaranteed in all stages of secret disease, Self-Abuse, Nervous Debility, Syphilis in all its Secret Ramifications, Gleet, Gravel, Diabetes, Pemales, Stricture, Kidney and Bladder Affections, Scrofula, Ulcers, Tumors, Blood and Skin Diseases, Ulcers upon the Body, Limbs, Throat and Head, Cancers, Dropsy, Epilepsy, Fits, St. Vitus Dance, and all diseases arising from the Improper Management of the Sexual Organs—such as Nervous Irritability, Loss of Memory, Loss of Vital Energy, Dimness of Vision, with Pain in the Head, Loathing of the Stomach, Loss of Sight, Weak Kidneys, Dyspepsia, Shortness of Breath, Palpitation of the Heart, Pimples upon the Face, Blotches upon the Body, Female Irregularities—and all improper Discharges of both sexes. It matters not from what cause the disease originated, however long standing, the Doctor guarantees a cure. Recovery is certain and in a shorter time than by any other treatment, as the Doctor has fulfilled the skill of most physicians, and has adopted all their means of cure. The most timid may place themselves under his care with perfect confidence, as his patients are kept entirely secret, and free from mercury or other poisonous drugs. Having fifteen years of practice in Europe and the United States, I have restored to health thousands who in the first stages of their sickness had been given up and declared incurable by their physicians, after having spent hundreds of dollars in vain. Many persons who have suffered for years from the effects of Mercury, contracted from the use of Quack Nostrums, can be cured in a few days by my Vegetable Antidote, without the least pain or inconvenience. Persons who cannot call may be cured at home by addressing me a full description of their case, and enclosing the amount of my fee, which is Five Dollars. Medicines sent to all parts of the United States and Canada. Remarkable Instance of Medical Relief.

Below we publish the certificates of three of the sufferers from the pages of disease, who, having recovered their former health, and impelled by gratitude, have given their cases and remedial agent, and their way authenticated by a Notary Public. Thankfulness imperiously command their publicity, and we submit their perusal to the attention of all sufferers.

Certificate—The undersigned, desirous of saving those who may be unfortunate enough to be afflicted, when a permanent relief of their sufferings may be obtained, feels it his duty to thus publicly express his sincere gratitude to Dr L J Czapkay, for the restoration to recovery of his health Borne down by the many evils incident to the vicious practices of youth, a terrible passion in youth, depressed in body and mind, unable to perform even the most trifling duty imposed upon him in the ordinary routine of life I sought the advice of many physicians who at first regarded my disease as of a trifling character—but after a few weeks, and in some instances months of their treatment, I found, to my unspeakable horror that instead of relief, my sufferings were increasing, in their torture and being told by them that my disease being principally confined to the head, while I was conscious I despaired of ever regaining my strength and energy and as a last resort, with but a small hope, called upon Dr Czapkay, after examining my case, I prescribed some medicine which I only observed one of the dull pain and distress in the head, encouraged by this I resolved to [illegible] with unremitting care and by a strict observance of the rules prescribed by him, my head became clear, my dizziness left me, the constant pain in my back and loins ceased, my walk was firm, the fiery sensation in the palms of my hands and soles of my feet left me, the eighteenth hour excitement, the depression of spirits, the fits of distress and want of confidence in the future, the painful nightly visions, and at times pleasurable emotions, all left me by voluntary discharges, have all ceased and in short I am restored to health after having spent hundreds of dollars, and been given up as incurable by many of the most eminent physicians of the day. But a short time ago I contemplated to end my existence, being wearied with the cruelty to guard the unfortunate victims of the [illegible] practice, I deem it my duty to bear this testimony to the merit and skill of Dr Czapkay, and cheerfully recommend him to all who may stand in need of medical advice, being assured by my own experience that those under his care a radical and permanent cure will be effected.

MARYSVILLE, June 21, 1858.

DR L J CZAPKAY San Francisco—Sir, I received your medicine and do not think I shall require more as I feel very well except that I have not my former strength yet but soon will with the application of it. It is just three weeks, you may recollect, since I left your institute with my constitution, as I thought, entirely and never thought you would be able to restore it perfectly but thought you might be able to do so to such a degree as that I would not get excited and trouble myself about everything. Now that you know what I expected, judge of my astonishment at my complete recovery. Those swellings and the removal of those sores and ulcers from my throat, and from my skin and the ulcers from my throat, and the [illegible] of those eruptions, which you said were the cause of my sickness. I can hardly tell you what a great source of joy or my surprise, for except my loss of flesh, but my strength I feel as well as any man can feel.

Find enclosed you twenty dollars over your bill, I think myself cheaply cured. If you think anything more is due you may put this letter in the newspapers. I remain, dear sir, gratefully yours, THOMAS [illegible]

Thankfulness is the incentive to gratitude.

CERTIFICATE—Prompted by an honest desire of doing good, I wish to lay before the public a case which deserves recommendation not only as an act of scientific skill, but of humanity also. About two years ago, I suddenly, from causes unknown to me, was seized with acute pain in my head, which owing to my inability to meet the expense, I could not submit to a thorough medical treatment, and the treatment which I met with on attempting it from time to time such (I was then led to believe) as to defy the skill of any physician. I was frequently while in pursuit of my daily avocation in the ground without the ability to move, and although insensible to the agonies, I yet felt the necessity of my life and soon learned to look upon those who would render assistance or shelter me from danger as persons who sought to prolong the existence of my misery. While in this state, and having previous to my affliction tasted the sweets of life, I once more was induced to [illegible] seeking aid of a physician, and by [illegible] upon Dr L J Czapkay. I told him of my misfortune and of my inability to reward him for his services, to all of which however he at once undertook my case, and by the blessing of God I was once more restored to perfect health. Unable to reward him for the boon which I now present and yet conscious of my indebtedness, I feel it due to myself and all afflicted, to make this statement in order that those in need of medical advice may find a physician in whom every confidence can be placed.
